

ENDA KELLEHER

Vice President

Sprintax, USA

Enda Kelleher is the Vice President of North America for Sprintax and has been with the organization since 2014. Having spent two university summers in the US and one in Canada, followed by a year in Australia, he had an early appreciation for the cultural exchange experience. Now based in New York, he leads the Sprintax team who develop innovative software solutions to help individuals and organizations to manage nonresident tax compliance.

Sprintax currently assists more than 300,000 non-residents with their taxes each year, and offer smart compliance technology solutions to employers, agents, sponsors and universities with international populations. He is also on the Travel Safety panel for the WISE organization, the umbrella organization for the youth travel market.

Prior to moving to the US in 2014, Enda worked in international sales for Mace Promotions covering Asia and Africa and before this had his own marketing agency in Dublin. When not talking tax, he is still a keen traveler, currently racking up 49 US states and 63 countries.
